COMMANDCENTRAL CITIZEN INPUT STANDALONE SOLUTION DESCRIPTION

CommandCentral Citizen Input Standalone is part of the CommandCentral 9-1-1 portfolio of services available on a subscription basis to emergency communications agencies.

When an emergency call comes in, Citizen Input provides a way for the agency to receive incident video, photographs, and recordings from the caller. Citizen Input is not dependent on the voice call, however. To use Citizen Input Standalone, the agency simply sends a permission-based text to community members with a link to a Citizen Web app. Once accessed, the interactive web client allows the agency to receive visual content from community members through live video streaming and file upload. It also supports communication through chat messaging and device-based location retrieval.

Citizen Input is a platform for real-time media sharing and interaction with the community, providing mission-critical intelligence to first responders in the moments that matter.

Agencies Receive Real-Time Media from Citizens with Citizen Input
